RECOVERS LOST DOG.

Valuable Setter Belonging to Mr. Caton Found on Water Front.

About a week ago Mr. George T. Caton of Alexandria called at the harbor police precinct and reported to Lieutenant Sutton that he had lost two valuable hunting dogs which had strayed away from the Alexandria ferry wharf while he was waiting for a boat to take him to Alexandria. The dogs were both setters, and were fine hunting animals, and Mr. Caton appealed to the lieutenant to aid him in finding them. One of the dogs returned to the ferry wharf the afternoon it was lost and was sent to Mr. Caton, but no trace of the other one could be found until yesterday morning, when a strange dog was seen running about the street in front of the ferry, and was recognized as the missing dog of Mr. Caton by Gateman Schoen! of the ferry line. The animal was caught and sent down to its owner at Alexandria. The dog, it is stated, had evidently been tied up somewhere, as it had a piece of rope fastened in its collar, and as soon as it got loose it returned to the ferry wharf, the last place it had seen its matser.

WANT NO TIME CLOCKS

EMPLOYES OF PRINTING OFFICE OPPOSE INSTALLATION.

Would Cause Confusion of Keeping Records of Establishment and Would Effect No Saving.

Employes of the government printing office are much interested in the recent announcement in The Star that the public printer has asked of the controller a decision as to his authority to purchase time clocks for installation in the big printery, if it should be found expedient to do so. The subject has been discussed pro and con, but the consensus of opinion among the workers is that there will be nothing for them to lose and but little for the office to gain. A timekeeper, usually the assistant foreman, makes the rounds of each division immediately after 8 o'clock in the morning and after lunch, and again a few minutes before the whistle blows at 12 and 4:30, and the check list turned in by shows the absence of any of the employes. The timekeeper takes but a few minutes in making the rounds, and the check list is used in making up the pay rolls. During Mr. Paimer's first administration a time-recording clock was given a three months' trial in the job division of the office, but the results were not satisfactory and it has been used as an ordinary clock in that division ever since. It was found that not only was several minutes of the employes' time lost, but it took longer to transcribe the record strip than to have the list checked off by a timekeeper. It was also found that as a large portion of the force did not go out to lunch, the time spent in registering twice at the noon hour was a needless waste.

In the hand-composing divisions the employes already use recording clocks for the purpose of designating the time of turning in a "take" of copy, the slip to be stamped containing the name of the compositor, his slug number, the number of the "take" and the number of "ems" set. To prevent undue crowding of the wash rooms at noon and again at quitting time, the workers are allowed five minutes in which to wash up, but it is believed that considerable more time would be required if recording clocks were installed.

On account of the fact that the bill force would have to be scattered among the various divisions, it was thought advisable to continue some employes in the first division at night. It is said hat the government does not have to pay much more for the composition of the night forces than that done at the day rate by ason of the fact that at night there is nothing to distract attention, and the compositors are enabled to set enough type to almost make up the 20 per cent difference

The holiday season at the Government Hospital for the Insane was brought to a close Friday evening, when the New Year ball, an annual feature for the amusement of patients and employes alke was held. The large stage was banked with palms, ferns and other plants, sent from the hospital green houses, and three hundred multi-colored electric lamps gilttered among the cedar trimmings with which the hall was effectively decorated. Four arc lights hung over all, illuminating the main hall, while twenty-six red lamps hung above the stage. The dancing begun at 8 o'clock, when fully five hundred persons were present, and was dis-continued at 11 o'clock, when "Home, Sweet Home," was played. PALM LIMITED TRAIN.

Time to Be Reduced Between New York and St. Augustine.

The Southern railway has just issued new booklet on its Palm Limited train, which is to cut the time from New York to St. Augustine down to twenty-seven hours. The booklet is a most artistic piece of railway literature. The letter press is by Wm. E. Curtis, and contains a mass of interesting facts about the places along the road, much of it historical data that would be hard to accumulate in any other form and which would tend to enhance the pleasure of a trip over the line for the average traveler.

The cover of the booklet is a fine piece of color work, while the book itself is illus trated with thirty dainty photographs of southern scenery, including one view of an ostrich farm, hotels and historic spots along the route. The letter press and illustrations are in black, but each page is bordered with ornamental designs in green, making the whole a remarkably attractive souvenir of most entertaining journey.

NEW YEAR OPENING.

Y. M. C. A. Plans for Big Reception Tomorrow Afternoon.

Plans for making the New Year reception Plans for making the New Year reception at the new building of the Young Men's Christian Association, at 1736 G street northwest, the most elaborate one which the association has ever held are being made by the committee in charge, and the arrangements are practically completed. The entire building, only recently fully completed, will building, only recently fully completed, will building the New Year reception to mical defects, and in such case the whole question turns upon the mental equilibrium and capacity of the person in question. Upon this point the physician and psychologist may be able to throw some light, but the ultimate decision should rest in the verdict of a jury of unbiased minds.

Dr. White in his report also said: "Many states of the Union have long since be open to visitors from 4 to 7 o'clock. In the large front lobby all the guests will be received. About 150 ladies have accepted the invitation to be in the receiving party and prominent officials of the association will aid in greeting the visitors. No set program will be carried out during the afternoon. There will be music during the hours of the reception and refreshments will be served in the large banquet room on the third floor. Visitors will be shown through the building, that they may see its scope

Committments for Insanity.

To the Editor of The Star: As a physician I cannot concur with the opinion expressed by Dr. White in his report of the Government Hospital for the sane as published in The Star of December 23, concerning committments to the asylum, when he says, "The crying defect in the present committments to the hospital is the fact that the committment has to be in open court by inquisition before a jury." Trial by jury is not the crying defect in the present method of committment to the asylum. It is the fundamental basis of Anglo-Saxon jurisprudence. The laws of this District as regards lunacy cases are based upon the English common law. Committments to the insane asylums are in derogation of the right of personal liberty, and no on should contend that the infringement or limitation of that right should be taken except from the most urgent necessity and by the most conservative method. Is it wise to abolish jury trials in such committments?

Dr. White, in his report of 1905, says that "the question of insanity is solely and absolutely a medical question to be solved by medical men, and there is no more sense in submitting such a question to a jury of twelve laymen than there is in submitting any other medical question, such, for example, as the existence of typhoid fever, to such a jury." In point of fact the question of insanity as deter-mined by a tribunal settles the legal status and civil rights of the one alleged to be insane; if found insane he is di-vested of all property rights and of his standing as a citizen in every way. Even a person isolated by reason of smallpox infection is not so divested of all civil rights. In cases of capacity to make a will or contract it would be clearly impossible to determine the question at issue by the verdict of medical men solely with-out upsetting the whole theory and prac-tice of our laws. Numerous other instances might readily be cited bearing out this That the question of insanity is solely and absolutely a medical question is an erroneous statement. In point of fact the question of insanity can only be determined by the symptoms discernible in any mined by the symptoms discernible in any given case; and for the most part such symptoms are readily recognizable when attention is called to them by the average juryman. It is true that manifestations of tyhpoid fever might be observed by medical men where the ordinary observer would not perceive, but in many cases of insanity there is a lack of physical or anatomical defects, and in such case the whole question turns upon the mental states of the Union have long since done away with inquisition by jury. It is not believed that a majority of the states have abolished the right of trial by jury in insanity cases or that they will ever do this. Surely "enlightened lunacy leg-islation" calls for the exercise of the highest degree of precaution in the commit-ment of citizens to an insane asylum; and the wisest tribunal devised by man is that of a well-constituted court presiding over the deliberations of a well-chosen jury, and such a tribunal will rarely err in making commitments to an instance asylum where they are actually necessary. Any other method is liable to abuse and to mistakes destructive of civil rights. Repeated acts of Congress have been Repeated acts of Congress have been enacted during the past ten years making changes in the method of commitment to the insane asylum—in one instance attempting to abolish the right of trial by jury, which act was subsequently repealed. There certainly seems to be no popular demand for the abolishment of the trial by jury in insanity cases. The question has been thoroughly and often considered by the District authorities.

District Attorney Duvall opposed any interference with the right of jury trial in his opinion of December 26, 1892, as did also United States Attorney Henry E. Davis, in his opinion of March 19, 1900, before the Senate judiciary committee. The court in general terms has also decided the question adversely to the contention of Dr. White.

It does not appear that the attempt to

It does not appear that the attempt to do away with jury trials arises from any popular demand or from the District au-thorities who contract for their care in the asylum. The constitutionality and advis-ability from an administrative standpoint are open to many other serious objections. CHAS. M. EMMONS.

STOP WHISTLE BLOWING

POLICE TO PUT AN END TO AN-NOYANCE.

Complained of by Resident of Southeast Section of City-Regulations on the Subject.

The blowing of whistles by engineers upon the steam railroad trains is to be stopped by the police. The District Commissioners and Mai. Sylvester read the editoral printed in Thursday's Star calling their attention to the fact that the enforcement of the law might be of benefit to the thousands of persons who are constantly annoyed by the noises. Mr. R. P. Miller, a resident of the southeast section of the city, in a communication printed in Thursday's Star, called attention to the great nulsance and annoyance by the use of whistles upon the railroad in his section. He is only one of many persons, however, who have been similarly annoyed and who have spent many sleepless nights because the engineers have been permitted to violate the law without fear of being prosecuted. The law covering the question says:

Police Regulation.

"No bell, gong, horn, whistle, drum or other noise-making article, instrument or device shall be struck or sounded in any of the places mentioned in section 1 of article 8 of these regulations for any purpose whatsoever except as provided in section 2 of article 10 of these regulations: provided, that street cars may continue the use of a starting gong or bell and shall strike a gong at every street crossing and where otherwise required to give warning: and bicycles, tricycles and motor vehicles shall sound a suitable bell or gong when necessary to warn persons of their approach."

ed in article 1 of section 8 include any street, avenue, alley, highway, footway, sidewalk, parking or other public space. Having had their attention attracted to the failure to enforce the police regulations in this respect, the regulation which prohibits the blowing of horns in the celebration of the Christmas holidays, the Commissioners and chief of police saw no way out of the matter except to direct that the ordinance must be obeyed. In order to accomplish this end an order was sent out by Maj. Sylvester yesterday to his several leutenants to have their men see that persons who violate the section quoted are brought into court and proscuted.
